

Hello,

My name is Matthew Gravina, I'm a third year student at McMaster University, and head of Public Relations for Invisible Children McMaster. We are a club that promotes Invisible Children, a non-governmental not for profit organization that seeks to end the child soldier atrocities that have been occurring in South-Central Africa for the past 26 years. Recently, a film has been released which has garnered a significant amount of attention, particularly on social media platforms. The film promotes an event which is set to occur on April 20th, in which delegates will place posters of Joseph Kony, the main ringleader of these atrocities, around the city of Hamilton and McMaster community. This is an attempt to make this persons name more widely known, and to hopefully at that point hold the government responsible to ensure this crime against humanity comes to a stop. Therefore I'm emailing you today regarding two things:

- 1) To be able to have the McMaster and Hamilton community hold you and your council accountable for bringing this to the attention of the citizens of Hamilton and the surrounding area, and;
- 2) To request for your support in this issue.

It is extremely interesting to me that teenage and young adult populations are so adamant about getting involved in this situation. This is a way we can harbour our voice to hopefully one day make a significant change. Should you wish to speak further about this in person, I am available.

Kind regards,

Matthew Gravina | Public Relations
