Mr. Eisenberger ;

Thanks so much for getting back to me so quickly. I did call his office today and left a message for him to say I support the LRT for Hamiltonians. I will be calling him back to make sure he got my message.

Thanks sincerely,

Lisa Hind

Dear Ms. Horwath ;

Thank you for getting back to me so quickly. Since Hamilton has been thru this process before it is nothing new but clearly very necessary. It's an failure of the system of democracy in Hamilton that the Council has been allowed to dominate and manipulate people of Hamilton for their sole purpose of keeping control. This time the LRT must get thru .

Province has supplied the funds for this LRT project (more than once) . Will help stabilize the economy in an economically crumbling Hamilton. Will help move Hamilton forward into the 21st century. Will provide many jobs for out of work Hamiltonians. Will modernize mass transit and decrease pollution. This will mean functional adjustments but that is what is necessary for Hamilton to move forward. I fully support the initiation and on-going work for the LRT for Hamilton.

Actually, it was well addressed in past discussions about LRT and how it will be great for Hamilton. Why is so hard for some Hamiltonian's to think about future?
 I am hoping it will go ahead and already done work will be the base for continuing with this projects.

I was and I am supporting this project believing in making good decisions for Hamilton.

Hi Paul, we will have to disagree. Light rail projects in many comparator cities have proven again and again to provide economic uplift in terms of growth and development. Hamilton needs to build this infrastructure now for the future. The entire system will go across the whole city once it's built, not just downtown. This is about what is good for the whole city, not just one area.

So after reading the Spec updates on what the city is doing.

I still find your response to be total that will cost the real taxpayers to carry the losers that should get out and provide for themselves.

LRT falls into the same analysis....useless to 99% of taxpayers.

Sorry but not everybody accepts what you or lower city councillors support because you are all too self centered to be the hero's of the downtown dead core.

Hi Paul,

Thanks for your candor, and yes I believe that by investing in affordable housing and programs to assist lifting people out of poverty we make society better as a whole. Our CityHousing stock has a deficit of more than $8M in repairs, and we have nearly 6000 people on the waiting list. My proposed initiative is not just to fix housing units, but also to integrate some of the work I've done with the Blue Ribbon Task Force speaking to employers about why they have jobs they can't fill, and why we have workers that can't find jobs. Social programming is a part of this as well.

Fred

Thank you for confirming what a mistake Hamilton made by giving you the big job again.

Seriously do you actually think that wasting $50 million on housing renovations will cure poverty.

You are planning to curb poverty by improving free housing for people that will just continue to destroy property that they do not have investment in because somebody else will pick up after them.

Waste more money on lazy Canadians and aboriginals when we will likely get more benefit from refugees that want to improve their lives rather than be generations of bottom feeders.

Cure poverty by giving the bottom feeders jobs like cleaning city streets, alleys and water shores not capitulating to their ignorance.

Hello Fred

Thank you for taking the time to talk to the Forestry Manager and for getting back to me so promptly with a response. I don't think I or my neighbours would agree with his assessment but so be it. Ms. Anderson is quite devastated by the loss of the tree and adjacent neighbours are very concerned about the loss of the tree which did not appear to be dying.

When we last talked at the CAP walk I indicated that I would write a letter of support for LRT and submit to the Hamilton Spectator. I have submitted the attached letter this evening. It may or may not be published but perhaps there may be a way for you to use the attached letter if it is not published.

I have been dismayed by the debate over LRT lately, as many arguments against that have been thoroughly answered have been resurrected, and there is even talk of a money-wasting and counter-productive referendum. Please, Councillors and Mayor, let us not waste further time and resources hashing through this. Hamilton needs you to recommit and move forward together without delay.

I fully support the construction of our own LRT system. I have lived in, and visited, cities where there was a downtown line. I found that transit in these cities was efficient, even for someone who didn't know his way around. I believe that this project will help to make Hamilton a better city to live in. The disruption will be forgotten once the LRT is working. Think of Toronto when the Yonge Street subway line was being built. We can embrace this huge project.

LRT is the most critical and vital project leading to a renewal prosperity in Hamilton. All my neighbours, the neighbourhood community and my friends in Central Hamilton want this project to be implemented as soon as possible. We must defeat the Upper Hamilton councillors who have a very narrow vision and are only advancing their own interest at the expense of the benefits that the LRT would have for the entire city.

I strongly believe that LRT is an efficient and needed means of transportation for the city of Hamilton. It is detrimental in enabling us to be a progressive and competitive city. Modern, fast and efficient means of transportation is key in retaining and attracting talented, bright minds who are considering where to live, work and play.

If any of them are still in doubt, I urge them to travel to any world city that has I have a system (eg Amsterdam, Dublin and many many more). They will see for themselves what a transformative positive sophisticated lift it gives those cities. Please embrace the opportunity to give our rising city a comparable lift!

Subject: Questions about LRT cost and implementation

I have clearly voiced my position of supporting you and council's decision to vote in favour of the LRT system for our city. However I have the following concerns:

Despite many votes on the issue I am hearing in the media that the project "Is not a done deal".

What would it take to undo the project or have the project cancelled by council?

What would happen if council didn't cancel the project but did not live up to it's obligations to vote/pass further measures to move the project forward?

If Hamilton Council does decide to cancel/not move forward with this project what would it cost taxpayers in terms of fees or penalties or existing commitments under the MOA with Metrolinx/Government of Ontario? I ask not just about the Environmental Assessment cost, but all staffing and other costs to date, and if there are any other penalties in the MOA or that could come from cancelling/delaying the project after voting to approve it?

Thank you for your continued leadership on this issue

I wholly supportive of using the $1b offered to advance the LRT plan for Hamilton and improve transit in Hamilton and the surrounding area.

To those City Councillors and politicians involved - please follow through on these plans (Councillors, can't forget stadium-by-default fiasco)!!!

I live in an older area of Ancaster - love my proximity to trails here, but - can/do cycle to work in Hamilton - shop in the core (market, Mustard Seed, indie shops) - entertainment dollars are mostly spent right downtown in the core.

I'm a Sobi/user/supporter/subscriber even though there are no stations here in Ancaster.

LRT will enhance Hamilton and area connectivity - living, working, and playing!

Recently I was talking with long time GTA friends, describing how exciting it is to see the new restuarants, cafes , galleries opening in Hamilton. How below the mountain is attracting people to move and invest in Hamilton. That's why it boggles my mind that Council would even consider NOT building the LRT.

If we want people (lots more people) to invest in our core we need to ensure a transit that will match the growth.

Not to mention the funds provided, the jobs created?? Those against can only be playing politics.

We expect councillors to be leaders first. Build the LRT!

The LRT is a great idea. We have Waterloo with some great tech schools. we have Toronto with lots of money, and we have Hamilton right in the middle. As someone who works in tech, this is a great opportunity for Hamilton. Hamilton has to be looking better and better for tech companies that are sick of paying for real estate in Toronto. The LRT will do a lot of solidify this relationship.

Some small businesses may suffer during the construction of the LRT, but once it's completed I think it will only benefit the area.

As an aside, I am a young, working professional. I don't own a car. I simply prefer public transit. How easy it is for me to get around the city using public transit is a big deal.

Subject: Politicising VON Volunteer dinner

Councillor Skelly,

I, as a volunteer and Mountain resident, was being appreciative of your positive comments about volunteerism at the dinner last night but that was erased when you launched into your request for indication of who was for and against the LRT.

I spoke to organisers today and they told me that they requested that you not introduce political issues and that you assured them you would not. This is outlandish behaviour even for a member of Hamilton Council which has a very bad reputation for partisan and inappropriate behaviour. Guess you are just trying to fit in.

I think you owe the organisers a public apology.

The situation indicates to me that some instruction into the role of elected representatives would be appropriate. You are elected to represent the best interests of the constituents in your ward and then the people of Hamilton, as a member of Council. This does not mean seeking the lowest common denominator. It requires careful research into and consideration of issues with an eye to long term as well as immediate impacts. The people who put their hands up for the negative at our table did so not considering the long term benefits for the city and whole population, only their immediate tax costs and possible inconveniences, a short-sighted perspective. Something like the LRT must also be assessed in terms of long term benefit to the city. I visited Calgary a while ago flying in and taking the train out and so did not have a car. Yet we ate at a restaurant well out of the centre of the city which we reached by the LRT. Two years ago we travelled around Amsterdam and last year Budapest by tram. Those systems cost money and took time to build causing inconvenience but have returned many fold those costs in the growth of the cities. I don't pretend to have all the data to make a decision on LRT for Hamilton but I expect each and every councillor to look carefully at the future as well as current impacts before making any decision. Finally, in this context, I would express the opinion that ordering a referendum would be an abrogation of the responsibility assigned you by those who voted in the election that saw you elected to Council.

Sincerely
John Vickers

Please say YES to the $1 billion dollar funding and LRT project.

We moved to downtown Hamilton 7 years ago and started a family here. Although we are still scared-to-death to cross Main St. and parts of King St. on foot we have seen the vast improvements downtown and would like to see more.

LRT is the answer I believe to making the downtown even more vibrant, and accessible.

LRT will give current and future citizens of Hamilton -- people of diverse ages, income levels, and physical mobility levels -- more equitable opportunities to access the city's businesses, resources and communities.

I respectfully urge our City of Hamilton Mayor and Councillors to proceed with the full LRT project.

I fully support the Hamilton LRT.

I ask you also to please consider putting a stop at the Delta, close to Gage Park. Many elderly people, or families with small children access this park on a regular basis. Placing the stop at Ottawa Street will be too far for mobility impaired individuals to walk back to the park. The Park is also a main destination for cultural events in the summertime.

Thank you for considering my remarks.

Hamilton can no longer afford to sit still, if we plan to flourish as a city we must accept our role in a much bigger picture. It is no longer acceptable to not think of large scale because weather you like it or not we will grow in population with or without LRT. I for one can't see myself using the LRT other than occasionally getting to the waterfront in the summer months although my children will find it in valuable and the ecomniocal benefits to be able to create sustainable jobs in a vacant downtown can only be achieved through mass transit. Buses (even bus lanes) can't do it as part of a traffic system. Light Rail is the only answer the city can afford, it's too late in urban planning for a subway.

I am grateful that Hamilton is finally a place to work, live, and play because my son didn't have to return to Toronto, where he graduated from University, to find employment. As a family that depends on public transit we were sure to make our support for the LRT known as it goes without saying that Hamilton without LRT betrays the development the City says it wants. Like many young people, my son now lives and works downtown and it is disappointing to see the project at risk. The lack of foresight and progressive thinking from some councilors has been shocking. Please do not derail Hamilton's progress.

Subject: Ottawa funded/approved Phase 2 LRT in 2013 -- before finishing Phase 1 (2018)

Hello,

I'd like to remind you that this is a big opportunity for Hamilton.

Ottawa is getting a quick incremental LRT expansion -- in 2013 they approved Phase 2 (Ottawa <http://www.stage2lrt.ca> -- and their Phase 1 doesn't finish till 2018).

This means Ottawa begin building Phase 2 IMMEDIATELY after Phase 1. So, please, be patient and agree on LRT+HSR+GO. Hamilton's equivalent would be getting our Phase 2 approved by 2019, in order to achieve contiguous continuous construction after Phase 1.

Yes, we need city-wide HSR expansion. That's important and we must press for that, too.

But we cannot turn away a once-in-a-generation opportunity build the Hamilton LRT.

Yes, we have to begin somewhere.

Let's point out the B-Line is the only LRT route that actually reaches the biggest possible population on $1bn.

By Census 2011, 112,015 total population of 519,950 in Wards 1-4 -- almost 25% of population in an area under 10% of Hamilton area.

Please support LRT and a large HSR transit expansion to mesh with the LRT, as pointed out by the Hamilton Transportation Master Plan. "LRT ready" means keep moving forward on HSR, not holding back on LRT until HSR is ready.

GO, HSR, and LRT are not mutually exclusive. Please say YES to LRT too.

If we are to ever emerge out from under the shadow of a polluted city it will be because we're successful in increasing public and active transportation. Here, cars rule, and it is a damning indictment. We know the numbers, for not only pollution but for pedestrian death and injury. We'd like to bring people to the city, we'd like it to be inclusive, and because fewer and fewer people are choosing to drive, we need to build the infrastructure that supports a carless society. The LRT is a big step in the right direction for Hamilton.

I live in Scarborough and we used to have a streetcar line until the the early 1950's. It was replaced with buses and the area was designed around the car.

Scarborough is now considered to be quite backward and ugly. So is Etobicoke to a lesser extent.

Most of us in Scarborough wish those lines were never paved over. The planners of the day are often criticized for their myopia.

It was very short-sighted of many cities, including Toronto, London and Hamilton to give up the light-rail transit that existed up until the 1950's and later, in favour of bus routes.

Sixty years later we have come full circle, and need those LRTs. The situation is not going to go away and it would be foolish to think it will.

The city of Hamilton has been granted the funds to invest in itself in a meaningful way. Wouldn't you rather be remembered as a council that worked for it's city as opposed to a dysfunctional council that worked against it's own best interests in order to please a few squeaky wheels that you would be better off replacing.

The people complaining the most about the proposed LRT probably commute by car from outside the city and do not spend a cent in Hamilton. They rush in and out and do not want anything impeding their progress.

They also do not pay taxes in Hamilton, ergo they are not paying for the upkeep of the city roads they wear out year after year.

They do not stop to consider that the new streetcars can carry 250 riders, that's a lot of cars that are not in their way.

As for the businesses, tell them to take a look at Queen Street in Toronto, or College St., or any street with an streetcar route. They are busy and vibrant and the businesses thrive. If you see an empty store, that has more to do with a greedy landlord than a streetcar line.

No city can afford subways anymore, not even New York City. LRTs are the future of urban transit.

History will be judging you.

Thanks for allowing me to express my opinion. I still have my fingers crossed that we might still have an LRT built here in Scarborough. A 3 stop subway is a waste and will only help the construction company building it.
