

Inspiring Places of Faith

Places of Faith are at the core of so many communities, yet many face significant challenges. We have tailored resources and services to help.

A Partnership for Places of Faith

This new collaboration between the National Trust and Faith and the Common Good, is dedicated to offering hope, inspiration and solutions to communities grappling with places of faith at risk. Together, we bring proven strategies and training that unlock challenging situations and sites, with the ultimate goal of enhancing the social, spiritual and cultural health of the community.

We work with faith communities and their community stakeholders, who could be downsizing, growing, selling, buying or redeveloping their place of faith, who want to work with municipalities, developers and others within their community to create vitality and purpose with these special buildings. About Us

Faith & the Common Good (FCG) is a national, interfaith network (charity registration # 82827 6121 RR0001) founded in 2000 on the belief that our diverse faith congregations and spiritual communities can be powerful role models for the common good. Our network is composed of people of faith, hope, and spirit who, despite our differences in theology, dress and culture, share a calling to protect our ecosystem and a passion for community service.
