2019 Recipient of the Emil Kolb Award

Gordon Selinger, Former Board Member, Regina Board of Police Commissioners

Gord was a valued member of the Regina Board for six years, from 2013 to 2018, and throughout this time was a thoroughly engaged member and offered a strong voice on the Board for improving policing in Regina. More importantly, as the Indigenous representative on the Board, he offered significant insight into the day-to-day problems faced by Indigenous peoples in Regina.

During Gord's 30 year career as a teacher and education administrator in Regina, a significant amount of his time was spent teaching and providing guidance to students with emotional special needs and learning disabilities, ensuring they received education in a way that addressed their individual needs and differences. Gord's strong support of these students established long term and trusted relationships that carried on well past school and Gord's retirement. Many students still keep in touch with Gord, calling him to talk, updating him on special life events—even inviting him to their weddings. Through this diversity in his educational background, as a Board member, Gord was always unwavering in his belief of the importance of mentoring and redirecting at-risk youth to help them make better life choices. He stressed that an important part of this involved not only a good relationship between police and youth in Regina, but extra support for those youth identified as needing additional attention to keep them from choosing an unlawful path. The importance of this connection between police and youth reinforced his strong support of community policing.
