Great points Carm,

I would like to add that there should be more transparency on the bidding process and bidding cost between all parties that submitted a bid.

I wonder if it might be time to consider going with a higher cost contractor that will spend more money on better materials that will not crack or heave as quickly.

I do understand that the city suffers from massive weather swings throughout the year, that can damage infrastructure.

We should be prepared and use the winter tires and not the regular tires or so to say.
