November 15, 2024

About Report PED24087(a) (City Wide)

The purpose of this report is to offer recommendations to the LRT Sub-Committee on tangible steps to facilitate the process of recruiting representatives of frontline communities to serve as non-voting advisors to the LRT Sub-Committee.

Climate Justice: Overview

- Involves outcomes that address equity challenges surrounding climate change.

Three dimensions of Climate Justice:

- Recognitional Equity—recognizing and prioritizing the needs of and opportunities for those communities and groups who are at risk of increased vulnerability or who have been historically ignored or underrepresented
- Distributive Equity—distributing climate action benefits and diminishing burdens across different equity-owed communities; and,
- Procedural Equity—factoring in municipal decision-making processes and who is involved in these processes to ensure the project reflects the needs, aspirations and knowledge of impacted communities.

Frontline Communities

- Populations that are disproportionately impacted by climate change.
- Includes Indigenous people, communities of colour, disabled people, low-income people, unhoused people, 2SLGBTQQIA+...
- Face heightened climate vulnerability due to the cumulative impact of environmental harms and socio-economic inequality, which limits their capacity to adapt to, resist, or recover from climate impacts. Furthermore, existing disparities mean that unless the City equitably directs resources to frontline communities, they are less likely to share the benefits of climate action.
